A vicious circle, take it how you will! But still a circle. And a circle still, Whether we please to praise it or decry, Remains the emblem of Eternity. THE LAST SCENE OF THE PLAY. BY MRS. W. K. CLIFFORD. I. The village stood half-way up the slope. Behind it rose the mountains. Round it stretched the brown earth almost destitute of trees, of greenness of any sort, but covered by even rows of little dark stumps. They were not more than a foot high, those curious stumps, they looked like little old men, cross and wrinkled. It was difficult to believe that they...
